This volume is a production of the Atlantic Council's Rafik Hariri Center for the Middle East in Washington, DC and The Institute for International Political Studies' (ISPI) Middle East and North Africa Center in Milan, Italy.

As a large project with many contributors, this report was a team effort. The scholars, journalists, and activists who are the authors of this work generously contributed time, intellect, and hard work which resulted in this publication.

This volume would not have been possible without the support of Emily Burchfield, who spearheaded the editorial process, liaised with contributors, and otherwise managed every detail of the publication and subsequent conference. Likewise, this report would not have been possible without the tireless efforts of Chiara Lovotti and Renata Meda, who provided essential research, administrative, and editorial assistance. We also thank our hardworking interns, Adam Aluzri and Christiana Haynes, for their contributions to this project.

In particular, we wish to recall the vision of Fincantieri Chairman and ISPI President Ambassador Giampiero Massolo who helped inspire this project. The Atlantic Council and ISPI also extend their special thanks to Fincantieri, SNAM, and the Foreign Ministry of Italy for their support.
