

Paula Mokwena is the CEO at Fireball Capital and manages the co-investment and direct investment programme. She is responsible for sourcing, deal negotiation, deal execution and general investment management.

Prior to her current role, Mokwena's career spanned investment banking, development finance and private equity. She previously worked for a grant funding programme designed to promote technology development in South Africa and was instrumental in the establishment of an on-balance sheet venture capital fund. She is a CFA charter holder who also holds qualifications in engineering; maths & applied maths; financial economics and investment management.